

Sources of authoritative free content: UK Museums and Cultural Organisations

Creative Commons

There are an increasing number of images available from many UK museums and cultural organisations under the terms of open content licences such as Creative Commons<sup>i</sup>, where you don't need to seek permissions. This means that you have more certainty than usual that the organisation has the right to grant open licences – they are either the copyright holders themselves or have liaised with the rights holders to enable them to grant licences for you to reuse their content.

Top Tips

- Copyright protection encourages us to stop before sharing content and consider the value of creative input
- Sharing copyright protected content without permission or the legitimate use of an exception to copyright is a copyright infringement and can lead to reputational impact, penalty fines and possible legal proceedings.
- You still need to check the licence, understand any restrictions and give credit where required
- Familiarise yourself with Creative Commons licensing terms<sup>ii</sup>, there are only four conditions used in different combinations.

Top 3 sources for CC licenced images

1. Art UK<sup>iii</sup> – the online home for every public art collection in the UK. You can refine your search to images with open or Creative Commons licences which includes in copyright as well as out of copyright where the artist died before 1950.
2. British Library<sup>iv</sup> – easy to use catalogue on Flickr.com, including book illustrations, maps and illuminated manuscripts. The copyright status and licence is displayed under the image.
3. Wellcome Trust Foundation<sup>v</sup> - thousands of freely licensed digital books, artworks, photos and images of historical library materials and museum objects.

Other cultural organisations offering licensed images for online and/or educational use:

- Birmingham Museum and Art Gallery<sup>vi</sup> offers images of all out of copyright works on a Creative Commons CC-0 Public Domain licence.

- British Cartoon archive<sup>vii</sup> offers cartoons which can be used for teaching purposes including academic seminars and conferences.
- Imperial War Museums<sup>viii</sup> offers images of some works in its collection on a non commercial licence, mainly ones out of copyright.
- National Gallery<sup>ix</sup> offers images of some works in its collection on a Creative Commons CC-BY-NC-ND licence, mainly ones out of copyright. It currently states that non-profit publications, personal websites, blogs, and social media are defined as non-commercial use.
- National Portrait Gallery<sup>x</sup> offers images of some works in its collection on a Creative Commons CC-BY-NC-ND licence, mainly ones out of copyright. It currently states that Creative Commons images can be used online in scholarly and non-profit publications and websites, blogs, local society newsletters and family history.
- Royal Shakespeare Company images<sup>xi</sup> have a large selection of images from RSC productions available to use in a classroom or for an educational activity.
- Science Museum<sup>xii</sup> offers images of works in its collection on a Creative Commons CC-BY-NC-SA licence and you can refine your search to non commercial use only.
- Smithsonian offers a huge selection of images and 3D models under Open Access with many under CC-0 Creative Commons licences.
- Tate<sup>xiii</sup> offers images of some works in its collection on a Creative Commons CC-BY-NC-ND licence, mainly ones out of copyright. You can refine your search results to artworks with Creative Commons licences.
- Victoria and Albert Museum (V&A)<sup>xiv</sup> have images from its collections available for specific permitted uses including non-commercial websites and for five years online use by charities and non-profit organisations.
- York Museums Trust<sup>xv</sup> offers images of works in its collection on a Creative Commons CC-BY-SA or Public Domain licence.

This resource was adapted from a blog post Wealth of Licensed Images Available from UK Museums and Cultural Organisations by Debbie McDonnell, Senior Consultant posted 17 March 2020.

---

<sup>i</sup> <https://creativecommons.org/licenses/>

<sup>ii</sup> <https://creativecommons.org/use-remix/cc-licenses/>

<sup>iii</sup> <https://artuk.org/>

<sup>iv</sup> <https://www.flickr.com/photos/britishlibrary/>

<sup>v</sup> <https://wellcomecollection.org/works>

-
- vi <https://www.birminghammuseums.org.uk/collection/picture-library>
  - vii <https://archive.cartoons.ac.uk/>
  - viii <https://www.iwm.org.uk/collections>
  - ix <https://www.nationalgallery.org.uk/paintings/search-the-collection>
  - x <https://www.npg.org.uk/collections/>
  - xi <https://images.rsc.org.uk/action/viewHome>
  - xii <https://collection.sciencemuseumgroup.org.uk/search>
  - xiii <https://www.tate-images.com/>
  - xiv <https://collections.vam.ac.uk/>
  - xv <https://www.yorkmuseumstrust.org.uk/collections/search/>

Disclaimer: None of the information contained within this document should be construed as legal advice. Should specific legal advice be required, please consult the appropriate legal advisor.

© Naomi Korn Associates, 2020. Some Rights Reserved. This resource is licensed for use under a

---

Creative Commons Attribution Share Alike Licence (CC BY SA)

